PUTTIN' ON A RITZ CHRISTMAS

London, July 2017: The Ritz London will once again be keeping the magic of Christmas dreams alive with a programme of spectacular celebrations and events during this year's festive season.

The hotel's palatial exterior and opulent Louis XVI interior décor will be sprinkled with sparkle overnight on Friday 24th November 2017. The centre-piece of the transformation is a Nordic pine Christmas tree, standing 25 feet tall, grown especially for The Ritz in the Scottish Highlands. Located in the hotel's Lobby, the iconic Christmas Tree is dressed in a traditional red and gold colour scheme with shimmering baubles, opulent angelic cherubs, gold reindeer heads, gigantic red velvet bows, silver tea pots and twinkling lights that tower up through the rotunda extending to the hotel's first floor. Renowned for its noble and elegant Christmas spirit, the stunning display will continue through the hotel's Long Gallery, which will be flanked by smaller pine trees and garlands leading to The Ritz Restaurant, where magnificent wreaths will beautifully adorn the windows leading the eye to the decorated Christmas trees on The Terrace. Little of the hotel will remain untouched by the festive spirit as the decadent decorations also extend into the 18th century private dining rooms in the adjoining William Kent House. Last, but not least, each of the 136 rooms will have a poinsettia and every suite its very own Christmas tree creating a wonderful and welcoming atmosphere, to delight both parents and children alike.
